Acting Audition Sides for Mamma Mia!

Donna Sheridan

Dramatic Side

(Confiding in Sophie)

“You have no idea what it was like back then, Sophie. I had nothing—no family to help me, no money, just you and me against the world. I did the best I could, and I never asked for anything in return. And now, you’ve gone behind my back, inviting them here? Don’t you understand how much I’ve been trying to protect you from all of this?”

Humorous Side

(To Tanya and Rosie)

“Look at the state of me—baggy overalls, paint in my hair, and now a wedding to plan! Meanwhile, you two waltz in here looking like you stepped off the cover of Vogue. I mean, do you even sweat, Tanya? And don’t get me started on the budget—where am I supposed to find a caterer who takes IOUs? Maybe I’ll serve grilled fish and call it rustic chic!”

Humorous Side

(To Tanya and Rosie)

“This wedding is going to be the end of me! Who knew flowers could cost more than a year’s worth of groceries? And the caterer—don’t even get me started! I might as well start charging admission just to look at the villa. At least the stress is good for weight loss—I’ve lost five pounds this week just from pacing!”

Sophie Sheridan

Dramatic Side

(To Donna)

“You always told me I didn’t need a father, but you don’t understand what it’s like to not know where you came from. I feel like a piece of me has been missing my whole life. I’m not trying to hurt you, Mom—I just want answers. Don’t I deserve that? You can be mad at me, but I couldn’t go through with this wedding without knowing the truth.”

Humorous Side

(To Sky)

“I know I should’ve told Mom about the invitations, but what was I supposed to say? ‘Hi, Mom, I secretly invited three random men who might be my dad to my wedding—hope that’s cool!’ I mean, it’s not like this happens every day! Okay, maybe it was a little impulsive, but what’s the worst that could happen? Oh wait… don’t answer that.”

Humorous Side

(To Donna)

“Mom, I know this is a little… unconventional, but hear me out. I invited three men to my wedding, and one of them might be my dad. Surprise! Don’t look at me like that—you always said you wanted a big, happy family. Well, here they are—big, happy, and very confused!”

Sam Carmichael

Dramatic Side

(To Donna)

“Donna, I never should’ve left. I’ve spent twenty years trying to move on, but nothing’s ever felt right since you. I know I hurt you, and I’ll carry that regret with me forever. But now that I’m here, seeing you, seeing Sophie… I just want a chance to make things right, if you’ll let me.”

Humorous Side

(To Bill and Harry)

“So let me get this straight: we’re all possible dads to the same girl, and none of us knew about it until today? This sounds like the setup to the weirdest reality show ever. What’s next, a talent contest to determine fatherhood? I mean, if it comes down to singing, you guys are in serious trouble. Just saying.”

Bill Austin

Dramatic Side

(To Sophie)

“You remind me so much of your mother—strong, determined, and just a little bit stubborn. If I’m your father, Sophie, I want to be there for you in a way I wasn’t before. I never thought about having kids, but now… I can't imagine walking away from you. We can't change the past, but maybe we can figure out the future together. What do you say?"

Humorous Side

(To Rosie)

"So, this island doesn't have Wi-Fi, a proper road, or decent coffee, but it does have you. That's a pretty good trade-off, I'd say. What do you think, Rosie—should I write my next book about surviving on a Greek island with a wedding, a mystery daughter, and you? I'll call it Chaos in Paradise. Bestseller material, right?"

Harry Bright

Dramatic Side

(To Sophie)

"Sophie, I've spent my whole life running from who I really am. I built walls, kept people at a distance, and did everything the 'proper' way. But meeting you has made me realize something: none of that matters. If I'm your father, I don't want to waste another second pretending. I want to be there for you, no matter what."

Humorous Side

(To Donna)

"Well, this certainly isn't the Greek holiday I was expecting. I came here for sun and relaxation, and instead, I've got wedding chaos and a 20-year-old mystery to solve. Not that I'm complaining—it's quite entertaining. But next time, Donna, a little heads-up might be nice. You always did have a flair for drama!"

Rosie Mulligan

Dramatic Side

(To Donna)

"You've been carrying this weight on your own for so long, Donna, and you don't have to. We're here for you, whether it's cleaning up the villa or figuring out this dad situation. You're strong, yes, but even the strongest people need help sometimes. Stop shutting us out. Let us be your family, the way you've always been ours."

Humorous Side

(To Bill)

“So, you’re a writer, an adventurer, and now maybe a dad? That’s quite the résumé. Tell me, do you also do your own laundry? Because if not, I’m afraid I might be too much woman for you. But hey, stick around, and we’ll see if you survive wedding prep first!”

Tanya Chesham-Leigh

Dramatic Side

(To Donna)

“Look, Donna, I know you don’t want to admit it, but you’re scared. You’ve spent your whole life being strong for Sophie, but now it’s time to let her make her own choices. She’s grown up, Donna, and so are you. You deserve a little happiness too. Don’t let fear hold you back this time.”

Humorous Side

(To Rosie)

“Three divorces, Rosie. Three. And you know what I’ve learned? Never marry a man who can’t dance. If he can’t keep up on the dance floor, what makes you think he can keep up in life?”

Humorous Side

(To Rosie)

“Darling, if this wedding doesn’t kill me, the mosquitoes will. Remind me again why I traded my penthouse for a room with a leaky faucet? Oh, right—Donna needed us. If I survive this, I’m treating myself to a week at the spa. And if a handsome waiter happens to join me, well, who am I to argue with fate?”

Sky

Dramatic Side

(To Sophie)

“Sophie, I love you, but this isn’t the way to figure out who you are. You don’t need three strangers to define you—you’re already amazing, just the way you are. Look, if this is what you need to do, I'll support you, but you need to tell your mom the truth. Secrets aren't the way to start our life together. Please, let's just face this together."

Humorous Side

(To Sophie)

"So let me get this straight—you invited three possible dads to our wedding, and now they're all here, at the same time? And you didn't think this might lead to total chaos? I'm not saying it's a bad plan, but… okay, no, it's a terrible plan. At least tell me you warned your mom? Great. This is going to be fun."